I. Introduction

1. The Conference on Disarmament submits to the seventy-sixth session of the General Assembly of the United Nations its annual report on its 2021 session, together with the pertinent documents and records.

II. Organization of the work of the Conference

A. 2021 session of the Conference

2. The Conference was in session from 18 January to 26 March, 10 May to 25 June and 26 July to 10 September 2021. During this period, the Conference held 50 formal plenary meetings, at which member States as well as non-member States invited to participate in the discussions outlined their views and recommendations on the various issues before the Conference.

3. The Conference also held 13 informal plenary meetings.

4. The Presidency was assumed in accordance with rule 9 of the rules of procedure, as specified in Appendix I to this report. The Conference noted that without creating a precedent for its future sessions, the Presidents of 2021 invited the last President of the 2020 session and the first President of the 2022 session to attend their regular informal meetings, for the sake of the continuity of the Conference's work.

5. The Conference's work in 2021 continued to be impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. The Conference continued to make use of remote simultaneous interpretation (RSI) platforms in order to convene plenary meetings in hybrid and virtual formats in the six working languages of the Conference, in line with the Conference's rules of procedure. The Conference noted that the use of hybrid and virtual formats did not create a precedent for future Conference meetings, yet it proved to be a tool, which allowed the Conference to continue its work in the pandemic situation.

The President: I now move to the request from Cyprus. May I take it that the Conference decides to accept this request? I have a request for the floor from representative of the Turkey.

Mr. Işilak (Turkey): Mr. President, I would like to declare that Turkey will not support this particular request. Our reasoning is duly reflected in documents CD/PV.1524 and CD/PV.1525. The position of Turkey on this matter is clear, principled and duly reflected in the documents CD/1438 and CD/1738.

The President: I thank the representative of Turkey. I would like to ask him for clarification, because while he said that he did not support this request, he did not say that he opposed or objected to it. Could you clarify your position, please?

Mr. Işilak (Turkey): We have an objection to the request, sir.

The President: In view of the objection made, the request is rejected.

The President: I now turn to the request from Saudi Arabia. May I take it that the Conference decides to accept this request? The representative of the Islamic Republic of Iran has asked for the floor.

Mr. Baghaei Hamaneh (Islamic Republic of Iran): My delegation would like to begin by congratulating all the Member States whose requests to participate in the session as observers have already been endorsed.

The Islamic Republic of Iran attaches great importance to the Conference on Disarmament as the sole multilateral negotiating body devoted to disarmament. Upholding the integrity and efficiency of this body, as well as its inclusiveness, should be a top priority for all its members. At the same time, we have to ensure that it is able to concentrate on the advancement of its important mandate.

Observer status in the Conference is a very important position, and countries that apply for this status need to show their commitment to the Conference's mandate and terms of reference and play a constructive and positive role to that effect. Being an observer implies respect for the rules and a responsibility towards this body's core mandate. A responsible observer does not abuse the trust and the privilege bestowed upon it by using its status to wage a distraction and disinformation campaign against a member State of the Conference.

Unfortunately, past experience shows that Saudi Arabia would be unable to observe the rules and respect the mandate of the Conference. Not only is it the sponsor of a coalition that has waged war against its poorest neighbouring country for the past six years, it has the third highest military expenditure globally and by far the highest military expenditure in the region. Saudi Arabia is advised to reconsider its destabilizing policies and activities in the region and to allow the International Atomic Energy Agency to monitor its questionable nuclear programme.

Mr. President, we cannot afford to let this body be further distracted and poisoned by a disinformation and blame-shifting campaign, in which certain States use the Conference as a platform from which to blame others for their own mistakes and crimes. The Conference needs to focus on its critically important mandates, free from abusive distraction. With all good faith, therefore, we do not support the granting of observer status to Saudi Arabia.

The President: In view of the objection just made by the Islamic Republic of Iran, there is no consensus to allow the participation of Saudi Arabia as an observer in the 2021 session of the Conference. Consequently, the request is rejected.

The President: I now turn to the request from the United Arab Emirates. May I take it that the Conference decides to accept this request? The representative of the Islamic Republic of Iran has asked for the floor.

Mr. Baghaei Hamaneh (Islamic Republic of Iran): My delegation is not in a position to support the request of the United Arab Emirates to participate as an observer in this session of the Conference on Disarmament. The destabilizing policies and actions of the United Arab Emirates – as a main driver of the so-called coalition that is destabilizing the region – and its complicity in wrongful acts and dangerous policies of Saudi Arabia, including the war in Yemen, is well known.

I should remind everyone that this is the first and hopefully the last time that Iran has raised such an objection. In fact, Iran is obliged, out of good faith and genuine concern for the professional and decent conduct of the Conference's work, to object to the requests for observer status by these States.

Despite the fact that the United Arab Emirates and Saudi Arabia have for two decades blocked its membership of the Board of Governors of the International Atomic Energy Agency and of other forums, Iran is raising this objection now solely to protect the Conference, as a multilateral platform, against useless politicization and malicious distraction during its deliberations in 2021.

The President: In the light of the objection that has been made, there is no consensus to accept the request from the United Arab Emirates. The request is therefore rejected.

Extracted from CD/PV.1552

The President: We will now decide on the request from Yemen. May I take it that the Conference on Disarmament decides, in accordance with its rules of procedure, to accept this request to participate in its work?

It was so decided.

The President: I welcome these non-member States to the session of the Conference on Disarmament.

The Islamic Republic of Iran has asked for the floor.

Mr. Azadi (Islamic Republic of Iran): Thank you, Mr. President. I wonder whether you were able to hear my previous interventions. I requested that the list of the new requests be considered one by one, as has been the practice in the past.

The President: Yes, we heard that statement, and that is what we did. We first took Singapore – there were no objections – and then we took Yemen, and again there were no objections.

It seems that you were not able to follow that. Can you confirm?

Mr. Azadi (Islamic Republic of Iran): Thank you once again, Mr. President. Regarding the latter request, by Yemen, I would like to say that the Islamic Republic of Iran attaches great importance to the Conference on Disarmament as the sole multilateral negotiating body devoted to disarmament, upholding the integrity and efficiency of this body. The inclusiveness of the Conference should be the top priority for all of its States members.

Yesterday, 25 January, was the International Day of Action on Yemen. The party that, in the name of Yemen, has requested the right to participate as an observer in the work of the Conference does not represent the great people or the State of Yemen. It can claim only to be representing the Saudi-led war coalition established to wage war on the Yemeni people and to inflict endless pain and suffering on the innocent population. Unfortunately, its members are complicit in the crimes committed by the infamous coalition against their fellow Yemeni citizens. A group of people who have effectively been held in captivity for six long years in the aggressor State's capital cannot speak for the Yemeni people. My delegation is not in a position to endorse this request.

The President: Well, I have a problem now, because we have already adopted the decision. I gavelled the request from Yemen. I asked whether there were any objections, and I paused quite a long time, because I was indeed expecting some reaction from the Islamic Republic of Iran, but there was not one.

I understand you are having technical problems and probably did not hear my question, so this is a bit of a difficult situation, but I think everyone understands that there are technical difficulties. I would thus ask for everybody's understanding and suggest that we go back to this request from Yemen. I will ask again whether the Conference on Disarmament decides to accept these requests to participate in our work in accordance with the rules of procedure.

Are there any objections?

The Islamic Republic of Iran has the floor.

Mr. Azadi (Islamic Republic of Iran): I should go through again through my previous intervention. My delegation is not in a position to endorse this request. I thank you, Mr. President.

The President: Thank you. In view of the objection raised, there is no consensus on this request, and the request is therefore rejected.

The President: We will now decide on the request from Bahrain. May I take it that the Conference on Disarmament decides, in accordance with its rules of procedure, to accept the request by Bahrain to participate in our work? I recognize the delegate of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Mr. Ali Abadi (Islamic Republic of Iran): Thank you, Mr. President. My delegation is not in a position to approve of this request for observer participation in the 2021 session of the Conference on Disarmament for the same reasons my delegation voiced with regard to requests by two other non-members – namely, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates. We urge Bahrain to cease its destabilizing policies and actions in the region, in particular by ending its complicity in the war crimes in Yemen and positively contributing to regional peace and security. I thank you, Mr. President.

The President: I thank the delegate of the Islamic Republic of Iran.
